I'm not who I used to be
I'm a different kid than the one who hid by the tire swing
I grew out of that part of me
When the world begins to sing
When the world changes my wildest dreams to reality
I'll be damn ready to go
There's something that I'm looking for

Do you think I can turn it on again this time?
I don't know how it all began
But it's not the same
No it's not the same
My world is not the same

This town aint what it was
It's polluted from the streets up to the sky above
This city has run out of love
You move like I thought you would
We were dancing in the back of a bar in Hollywood
I labeled you misunderstood
Why couldn't you have understood?

Do you think I can turn it on again this time?
I don't know how it all began
But it's not the same
No it's not the same
My world is not the same

I won't let this break my bones
I won't let this break my bones
Every time it's a little different
And I won't get caught up in it
Cause now the past is gone
And I'll be moving on

Do you think I can turn it on again this time?
I don't know how it all began
But it's not the same
No it's not the same
My world is not the same
