Little girl walked into my world
We were 17, it was easy to see
That you were someone I could love but I couldn't imagine you loving me
We'll I could have said 1,00 words
But I was just too scared to speak Now I'm alone wondering if I will ever get the chance to see
So what's it gonna be??

You light the match and I'll start the fire in this place
Feeling the passion turn to desire
All I can say is I want you every day
You light the match and I'll start the fire

These days are getting too cold
I'm ready for you
I'm out with the old
I can taste it every time I see your face
But we're always in a crowded room
So give me yourself
Give it all cause you know that I'll savor the taste
I can't imagine all this passion I got just going to waste
So what's it gonna be?

You light the match and I'll start the fire in this
place
Feeling the passion turn to desire
All I can say is I want you every day
You light the match and I'll start the fire

Right now I hurt cause you sleep in his shirt
And I never had the guts to say
All that I want is to love what you got
But I feel I may have to wait
I will see you moving
I will see you moving with me one day
Until then I'm watching
But you know I aint looking the other way
I'll have to wait

You light the match and I'll start the fire in this
place
Feeling the passion turn to desire
All I can say is I want you every day
You light the match and I'll start the fire

We'll burn this place
