I see the light on in your room
I look for shadows, or any small clue
I straddle the lines like poor a drunk fool
For a shallow beat that's long enough
To get my heart through

And I go in circles in my dreams
Where I'm dizzy in that space between
Sleep on the floor beside my bed
Dream about how fun it is, to be inside my head
And I remember how much you like bearing your regret
Well I was the atom and your heart
The heart that's made of lead

And I see the friends you used to know
And those long missed places, I can't go
So drag me home gagged, bound and bloody
As your quiet vigil brings me home
Even though all my clothes are muddy
I still think this was much more fun
Than trying to be alone

And forget that blood red sky above
As I turn your push into a shove
Go ahead and call your tired friends
I won't be left behind again, left behind again

So don't let your tears overflow
'Cause you won't find my number in your telephone
I left your planet long ago
I took my heart and my guitar
And never looked back home

And I see the friends you used to know
And those long missed places, I won't go
So I spin in circles in my dreams
And I'm dizzy in that space between Dizzy in that space between
