"Missing Miracles"

If he'da known what he was missin' when he still had the chance
He woulda wanted less and given more, and made every second last
When he walked outside and felt that rain, he'da taken in its grace
And counted blessings, instead of stressin'
'Bout work and running late
And all that money to be made

Cause we're all walking round in circles thinkin'
Life is just a prison
But the only crime is we don't love ourselves
In trying so hard to be powerful
We don't see beautiful
And everyday we're missing miracles
Missing miracles

As she drove down the street she'd have noticed colours on the leaves
And the way the sunlight lit them all on fire
When that ambulance went flying past she'da said a silent prayer
Instead of sippin' coffee, talking hands free
And staring in the mirror
She never saw what's really there

Cause we're all walking round in circles thinkin'
Life is just a prison
But the only crime is we don't love ourselves
In trying so hard to be beautiful
We don't see beautiful
And everyday we're missing miracles
Missing miracles

Oh somewhere in the siren's scream
She mistook the red for green
And suddenly their worlds collide
In slow motion their lives rewind Unravelling the mystery of it all
Every second we're given

Every breath we take in
Is a miracle

We're all walking round in circles thinkin'
Life is just a prison
But the only crime is we don't love ourselves
In trying so hard to be powerful
We don't see beautiful
And everyday we're missing miracles
Missing miracles
Missing miracles

If he'da known what he was missin' when he still had the chance...
