"All Falling Down"

The baby sleeps while the children play and Mama don't know what Daddy don't say Yeah it's a cold world, baby so keep you're coat on And remember the things that we used to have when the world was much simpler than a dime in a bag yeah it's a cheap trick, baby So keep you're guard up

Now darling I know that life doesn't seem fair There's sadness and hunger that we all must bear some worse than others and some better yet but you can't just look around with resentment and regret

You can search every water, every land known to man In compassion we falter but we're only human that's just a cruel lie, baby but the truth will find you

From one spark, one light, one ignition we came From one point and to one point we go again Ashes to ashes as dust turns to dust

And we all go falling down
Yes, we all go falling down
And we all go falling down
Just to rise once again

Now over and over we fold and unfold and time must seem linear so that we may grow From death there comes life but from life there comes death

And we all go falling down
Yes, we all go falling down
And we all go falling down
Just to rise once again
