"Mirrors"

Visit "Mirrors" on MotoLyrics.com

The past is held in the mirrors that keep all things in time

Reflecting everything that you have been
Within the corners of your mind

To reminisce whenever your senses are inclined
To look at something or someone from the past
That you left far behind

CHORUS:

They are the mirrors of your life
That keep your memories alive
The fragile windows that you open into time
With hindsight as a guide

They are the mirrors of your life
Where some past truths are present lies
So you can see how every moment made you wise
And taught you to survive.

In mirrors there is a story of things that used to be
People and places that we have known
Gave us identity

They're fragments of a history
That you and I call 'life'
The crystal pieces that landscape memory forever

CHORUS:

They are the mirrors of your life
That keep your memories alive
The fragile windows that we open into time
With hindsight as a guide

They are the mirrors of your life
Where some past truths are present lies
So you can see how every moment made you wise
And taught you to survive

So if you ever want to see yourself
There is a corridor of glass for you to dwell
Inside the mirrors of your life
