You say the world is a dark deceptive place
You feel betrayed
You say your life is stale and bitter
You want to hide

Don't close your heart
Let the love within guide your star

Please have patience
No matter what they say, no matter what they do

Please have honor
No matter what they say, no matter what they do
Your heart holds the truth

I know that life has worn you down
So much loneliness

I know that you, you blame yourself
You feel so worthless

Don't, don't close that door
Find out what you are living for

Please have courage
No matter what they say, no matter what they do
They can't take that away from you

Please have mercy
No matter what they say, no matter what they do
Your heart holds the truth

Whether or not you can see
As the Universe unfolds, forgiveness is the key

Please have kindness
No matter what they say, no matter what they do
They can't take that away from you

Please have balance
No matter what they say, no matter what they do

They can't take that away from you

Please have hope

No matter what they say, no matter what they do

Your heart holds the truth

Your heart holds the truth

Your heart holds the truth
