Hold my hand over water, and whisper in my ear
Lets take this a little farther, this fun begins with fear See my mind has started drifting, and everything turned around
The weight that I am liftin, is keepin me on the ground

All I need is a woman and a place to die
Save my soul, set my spirit to the sky...

Cause there's a burnin house behind these blue eyes
Shadowed by you, just simple symmetry
You make mistakes in the back room,
You pull the rug out from under me Well I think I've grown up, think everything's gonna be okay
Till I know the feelin, Of being loved and then pushed away

All I need is a woman and a place to die
