It's cold tonight, but come outside.
We need to talk, just you and I.
Because I've had it up to here with Broadway,
Stage lights flicker on when you're around.
I've had enough.

It's cold tonight, but I don't mind.
Do you think that you could just find some time?
Because I believe in second chances.
Awkward glances is what you've made this now.

Because I've been trying to get it through your head
That you've been lying to yourself and all your friends.
But if you cut it out tonight, I'll forget everything you
said.
Don't call me crying anymore;
I promise, this is the last time I'll do this.

It's cold tonight just walking by.
And I don't get how you can just live this lie.
Don't tell me that you're doing better,
I know that you're feeling just like me.

Because I've been trying to get it through your head
That you've been lying to yourself and all your friends.
But if you cut it out tonight, I'll forget everything you
said.
Don't call me crying anymore;
I promise, this is the last time I'll do this.
(This is the last time)

All these choices crashing down on you now.
Take a breath and let it all come out.

Because I've been trying to get it through your head
That you've been lying to yourself and all your friends.
But if you cut it out tonight, I'll forget everything you
said.
Don't call me crying anymore;
I promise, this is the last time I'll do this.
But if you open up your eyes, maybe you'll figure it all out.

You're just another lesson learned;

Hey Drama Queen, I swear this is our last goodbye.
