Before you question my actions again
I would appreciate a little hesitation to be fair
How could I choose to believe;
That I really saw you standing there?
You can't be mad cause no one showed you where to run
You can't stay mad just cause it hurts like hell

It took me so long to realise before I came alive
And sent the stars into the silence that they bear
I never made you believe
That I really saw you standing there
I've been to nowhere and that's where I'll tell you I am from
You seem to listen to what we've become

Between you and me
There's a little misunderstanding don't you see?
Oh would you ever be in mind?
But you wouldn't have it allowed

Hold on just reasonably strong to who you are Because I just can't comprehend it
If life leads me so far beneath the ground

Between you and me
There's a little misunderstanding don't you see?
Oh would you ever be in mind?
But you wouldn't have it allowed
Oh could you believe
You used to be a little less demanding unto me?
The best are in between the lines
But you wouldn't let them be found
