Hey Jarred,
I think youâ€™ ll remember words quite similar to that sung heartfully from Josephine the guitar from Dalat but weâ€™ ve come so far since Phnom Penh and Iâ€™ ll take this chance to say some words to celebrate my friend on his seventeenth birthday

Hey Jarred,
I know itâ€™ s hard some times
When your thousands of miles away
And its cold outside

Hey Jarred,
I know itâ€™ s hard to say goodbye
But there's a world for us to see
There's a world for you and me

Hey Jarred
Do you still remember, all the time we spent away
Had lots of fun, and threw lots up
I miss it everyday
We learnt a lot about each other
A little too much for sure Throwing socks into hotel fans
And hiding the pillow wars
And one more thing, Iâ€™ d like to say Iâ€™ ll skip any lullaby
Just if I can hear you explain
Exactly how it is paint dries

Chorus

Along the way weâ€™ ve shared the trials
Of classes, just us two Math and science, English and psych
I just donâ€™ t think RAVE was for you
And while we might have been a bit carried away
In our debates from time to time

We still can usually beat Keira,
When we leave assignments till the last night
We don't always agree
But I think that that's okay
For example I think that this song is the best
But you might see it another way
For every argument, and choker hold
That you inflict on me
It's worth enough, for every hug
Or snuggle that I sneak

Chorus

I don't think I'll ever forget, camping in Kuipo Arguing philosophy and politics, and then you punched me in the throat
But for all the talk and jokes we make, I think one thing is true
Deep down you love me just as much, as I love you

Chorus X 2
