Woke up stood on my feet in the middle of an empty street and,

It's changed my head and I feel its permanent change in my heart beat. And I found

Consistency is the hardest thing to keep.

It gets harder every time I try to sleep.

You can't see me when I'm, Dressed in my Lies.

I keep it all behind my eyes were my,

My really messed up self can hide.

I keep it in behind my disguise.

Struck out the world so cold and I noticed what I've been told has,

Slipped away from my mind, the give me back my own time, well.

Will my dreams Kill my soul, I guess only it knows but,

It just made me find, the answers to the questions I've never asked.

You can't see me when I'm, Dressed in my Lies.

I keep it all behind my eyes were my,

My really messed up self can hide.

I keep it in behind my disguise.

You can't see me when I'm dressed in my lies.

I keep it Locked behind my eyes were my,

My really fucked up self can hide.

I keep it in behind my disguise.
