In my backyard I have boxes
I have spices and parked cars
In your backyard you have mountains
You have highway you see the stars

But I don't see stars from my backyard oh but I believe that they are there So if you see one would you wish on it for me here

Eyes on the treeline
And feet in the sand
These things surround me
and I can't breathe in,
But you won't see me in the valley

On your mountain you have branded an initial monogram In my window I have neon not much brighter, but draws me in

If I can't make it to the summit oh, would you send someone down?
Call for backup if I can't make it up on my own.

Eyes on the treeline
And feet in the sand
and I can't breathe in,
But you won't see me in the valley

Eyes on the treeline
Feet in the sand
These things surround me
and I can't breathe in,
But you won't see me in the valley, no
You won't see me in the valley.
