9's down to the bricks. I saw algebra in your eyes.
Geometry between the lies.
I saw my image of you fade in exponential waves of
grey.
I'll go. I know I should have figured it. Don't give me degrees.
I've been at the seaport all day long.
Just me and my paint box abstracting numbers in the
sun.
Good-bye in long division.

I saw my image of you fade in exponential waves of
grey.
I saw my favorite number two get crushed
Divided in squares. I'll go.
I know I should have figured it. Don't give me degrees.
I've been at the seaport all day long.
Just me and my paint box abstracting numbers in the
sun.
Good-bye. A long division.
