The truth within these walls
Gave me security
Until my mind created
An imprisoned autonomy
As the gates slam shut behind me
The world opens up and swallows me whole
But I'll never look away
Until in death I find my home

But these walls are white,

Floating in and out of sanity
Losing yourself in a black sea
Wake up, Wake up,

Wake up, wake up
I'll redeem what I have lost

It's all I have

And I'll never say
Give me reality
Cause reality is nothing to me
In dreams I lay
But I can't stay here
She calls my name
And I hear...

Looking back
There was always
A rose in the dirt
A light in the dark
You gave up your life
to keep me alive
So I've come to know,
Not all angels need to show their halos

And I'll never say
Give me reality
Cause reality is nothing to me
In dreams I lay
But I can't stay here
She calls my name
And I hear...
