Welcome Caesar to the Senate floor,
You're in for a meeting like never before!
Play the part, walk to your final act - your requiem!

Do you know what's behind the set?
Can you read from the eyes you've met?
On this day we cherish the God of war.

Warned by the seer to stay away,
You should've listened, they're not all astray.
Every step you take may be your last; a thing of the past!

Do you know what's behind the lies?
Can't you see you're the one they despise?
On this day we cherish the God of war

You live with traitors by your side
Watching you waste your days and nights
Take the seer's advice and cherish your life
Beware, beware the Ides of March!

An innocent meeting or so it would seem,
In a place so private, none can hear you scream.
A crowded room, a quick violent stare; a knife surprise!

Tripping, falling, there's no chance for escape
23 wounds are more than it takes.
A tyrant is down; no help for him now

(CHORUS)

Welcome Caesar to the Senate floor,
You've been in a meeting like never before!
Played your part in your final act
Your requiem!
