There are times when I fall through
I can't feel the love in you
I know that I'm pushing you
Away from the man you knew

It's not always black and white
The grey obscures and blocks the light
So why not paint me red tonight
But I've got to feel what's right

And there you are
You're losing you in me
And there you are
I'm losing you from me
And there you are
We're losing you and me

Call a truce on this silent war
We both lost an empty draw
The words we used lie on the floor
The broken swords we must ignore

You don't think I fit the bill
Don't know if I even will Always further all uphill
But I know I love you still

And there you are
You're losing you in me
And there you are
I'm losing you from me
And there you are
We're losing you and me

How can I show that this was not
Who I wanted to be
Let go of all the hurt inside
And figure out why you love me

It so clear when looking back
Far too young to see the cracks
The buck starts slipping off the tracks

Now please stand by me while I pack

This is not a simple choice
Nothing left now to rejoice
Johnny cash and Jimmy Joyce
If you speak for me then use my voice

And there you are
Youâ€™re losing you in me
And there you are
I'm losing you from me
And there you are
Weâ€™re losing you and me
