

Sidney York "Dick & Jane"

Visit "Dick & Jane" on MotoLyrics.com

Dick pulls the sheets away,
says "Jane you look the same as you did yesterday,
And the week before!"
"Jane, where's my head today?
Ear left the pillow and my eye float away,
I got a mind to be outdoors!"

And where should we go?
And where should we go?
And where should we go?

Jane lose those training wheels,
the thought of leaving is so surreal,
don't leave this thought alone!
Two wheels and handlebars,
can't see for the street signs and the motor cars,
let's find an open road!

And where should we go?
And where should we go?
And where should we go?

Dick, dear, the sun is low,
I'll lift my feet and let the wheels roll...

And where should we go?
And where should we go?
And where should we go?
And where should we go?
And where should we go?
And where should we go?

Visit Sidney York page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.