chorus

if you see things the way i see them you could
try to acknowledge them you used to say but i didn't listen,listen verse

you told me i could be anything despite of coming from nothing you said my time will come and my gate will open no need hasten and i wish i could have listened other than taken my route which i had almost regretted

i wish that time could come back when there was no hate but appreciation of every mate but now once down fall is another person celebration and that is every hater commemoration things aint supposed like that and i ask my self what the fuck

i wish that that time could come back when you could not fear to introduce you best friend to your girl friend without fear of becoming former best friend or even former fiance because every body before action used some common sense which usually made sense but now every body want to prove himself bu i rather just be my self

try to acknowledge them
