I needed you then, just like I need you know. If you were still here youâ€™d be proud. I got outta bed before the clock struck twelve. Iâ€™m out and about in the car with an old friend. With not much to say we just sit and ride. We pass by the school where we had our first kiss. The well lit field were I first took your hand. And led you to the centre where we started to dance.

These romantic memories (and I will not let go of you) have become such a part of me (as long as you promise one thing) I canâ€™t believe youâ€™re gone (that everyday youâ€™ll think of me) and sing this song.

I kneel down facing the place where you lay and say aloud I should have cherished you more. In death Iâ€™ve realized your worth. I hope youâ€™ll take me again when Iâ€™ve left this earth.

These romantic memories (and I will not let go of you) have become such a part of me (as long as you promise one thing) I canâ€™t believe youâ€™re gone (that everyday youâ€™ll think of me) and sing this song.
