They say that you don't have to follow your dreams and if it's so you have to face the truth you'll be betrayed by everything you do you're chasing safety but It's just a perfect night for...

Crying (crying alone) you're gonna find another way to sleep you'll never catch your dreams but they will find you (find you alone) just like the air when you need to breathe in but please remind them

One day these empty words will seem so far away so far away from everything that you have learned before you started to grow up you're kissing safety but Now everything is crumbling on you... you bleed for silence but it's just the noise that you're making cause you're
