She's changin' pace she thinks that everyone knows what she feels she cries in vain but she can cover her fears with a smile

So turn off the light and they won't see your eyes

Are you feeling petrified?
'cause it's just another lie you won't be the same for the rest of your life

'cause everything is not enough for you so save your memories and try to make believe that it's just what you want to live someone else's life

You feel a waste you feel replaced you see them look another way the beauty that you had before does it make sense?

You can't behold what you're going through your spark is killing you but you just need time to fill the emptiness tonight

And they will ask you are you still alive?
Is everything alright? you're pale and you don't know why you're stuck in this life but you won't be brave so lie in your bed and take this to your grave!
