The honeymoon was over before the wedding had begun
The Tropic of Capricorn, left melting in the sun
But what could be more beautiful than a weekend in the rain?
The moment that you realise... that you're on your own again, on your own again
Oh give it all up, the sun has set, No one's coming to rescue you
Oh give it all up, the sun has set, You know that guy is wrong for you
I thought it was the weekend
But where are my friends?
It's Friday night
Don't ever, don't ever let it end
I heard you got a new gang, I guess you're seeing how it goes
And if the light outside can save me, I better keep the curtains closed
That night we took the boat out
Still replaying in my mind
Moored to a memory,
sunk by the passage of time
Oh give it all up, the sun has set, No one's coming to rescue you
Oh give it all up, the sun has set, You know that guy is wrong for you
I thought it was the weekend
But where are my friends?
It's Friday night
Don't ever, don't ever let it end
This is not something that I do best
This is not a heart within my chest
This is not a subject I understand
This is not the evening we had planned
But I know you now like I knew you then
This will all repeat itself again
This is not the end, this is not the end
This is not the end, this is not the end
Friday night, I don't wanna wake up alive
Friday night, I don't wanna wake up alive
Friday night, I don't wanna wake up alive

Friday night, I don't wanna wake up alive
