Invest in much and give a little away
Aint got a gift, but you've got something to pay Well, my grandmother told me to marry one of you but I won't

What is your problem dear?
You look kind of down
The only face your best friend makes is a frown Well, I'd do the same if I was stuffed up all day in your pocket

Oh, something's gotta give Cause I've got something to give

But this world is run by the men in the suits Wiping us clean of our cents til we have no sense left to listen to
So we take our sides and we shun while you take our money and run
But you gotta know what's coming back to you
You gotta know what you are

You are a dime a dozen but worth twice as much Aint got no love, but you've got something to touch
Well, the rope's getting stronger Resistance is a bond you can't buy

What's gonna happen when the water gets too high?
You really think plastic will keep you alive?
I'll laugh as you build a boat out of paper and pens

Cause I've got something to give Oh, but first something's gotta give

But this world is run by the men in the suits Wiping us clean of our cents til we have no sense left to listen to
money and run
But you gotta know what's coming back to you
You gotta know what you are

Your spine is long gone, but you stand tall with the help of your jacket
Near-sighted to the point of blindness,
But you see with your expensive glasses Your shoulders have grown broad carrying around that head of power
But your high stature can't deceive
It shows you're a coward

But this world is still run by the cowards in the suits Wiping us clean of our cents til we have no sense left to listen to
money and run
But you gotta know what's coming back to you
You gotta know what you are
