Jump on the bandwagon, it's a spreading disease. I've had my fix of these online personalities. I'm in the digital world and looking for the door. the faceless talking is something I need to ignore. pointing a finger (so quick and anxious), the strongest opinions always belong to the nameless. I'm in the digital world and looking for the door. the faceless talking is something I need to ignore. I'm in the digital world and looking for the door. I'm in the digital world and looking for the door. I'm in the digital world and looking for the door. I'm in the digital world and looking for the door.
