I was never one for moving on.
I was never one for change.
But now that everyone is moving on,
I had just hoped that you would always stay the same.

These currents drag me on and on.

Can you feel it?
The weight of your worries caving in the walls of your world.
Can you believe it?
The end of everything as you know it, it was nice to know you.

Just bite the bullet,
Hold on, you'll get through it
But tomorrow's a new day
You'll find a new way
You're stronger than you know

Don't let this get the best of you.
Just forget the past, and do what's best for you.
You left my heart somewhere between 23 and the Boulevard.
Trading something old for something new is something I could never do.
