You say we're alike but we're not, no we're not even close

Cause I know who you are and you think you know me but you don't.

Started moving along but you couldn't ignore your desire

So you tossed me aside and attempted to hide on a wire

He kept us in the dark

Did you play in your head the way that I would react to the news

And how you would respond like it all just came out of the blue yeah

Well you blame it on love and who's gonna argue with that

Or admit to the fact you were wrong to go behind my back

He kept us in the dark

No time to repair

He kept us in the dark

Why were we there

And in the midst of a tall tale I found clarity

Cause the truth is I was in the wrong myself

The past couple years have been real hard on us

Here's to hoping we can learn from our mistakes

Surprised he's pleading insanity

What you find

It's not exactly what you thought it would be
