I woke up on this morning
And misery surrounded me
And I am forced to face a day
I didn't even want to begin
God knows I'm going through it
And it's hard to imagine I can make it this time
As my sadness mounts I pray that this day will end
Cry myself to sleep and then start again
When the world loses it's luster
And you're feeling sad and lonely
And you need someone to be there
In your time of need
You can turn your eyes to the heavens
And their creator's watching over you
With arms of love to hold you and draw you near You're in the midst of heartache
Perhaps you've lost a loved one
Lost all your faith-can barely pray
For the strength you need to go on
Well, darling don't give up now
I know that inevitably this too shall pass
Trouble doesn't last always
Hold on through the pain
I believe the sun will outlast your rain
