So this is where it all begins
You see my patience wearing thin
I know that your enjoying this somehow
I'll never understood how you can be so proud Well this is where
We got it wrong
But step by step
We're moving on again
But'tg for such a careless mess
I wish I cared a little less about you now
Cos I'm stressed out
A nervous wreck about
Your hands around my neck
Now that I've learned who to love
And who to live without Hey, walk away step back and save this fight for another day
It doesn't have to end this way
Don't try and start, if we both just play this smart we'll walk away
Well that's what a friend would say
Now you're right under my skin

Soon these fists will start to swing

You got until the count 1, 2, 3

Until this all gets the best of me

And then we'll stumble out the door

I don't remember just what for

But if you push me I'll react unless my Conscience holds me back from something more

Cos I'm stressed out

A nervous wreck about

Your hands around my neck

Now that I've learned who to love

And who to live without

Hey, walk away step back and save this fight for
another day

It doesn't have to end this way

Don't try and start, if we both just play this smart we'll
walk away

Well that's what a friend would say

Well that's what a friend would say

Well that's what a friend would say

Look into my eyes, and see that it's too intense to hide

The stress but it all seems pointless

Hey, walk away step back and save this fight for
another day

It doesn't have to end this way

Don't try and start, if we both just play this smart we'll
walk away

Well that's what a friend would say
