Stockings red and spread your legs follow them to where they meet and show me what i've paid for bite your lip and close your eyes hide the tears you feel inside for giving up what was yours i've watched the women come and go they speak of michealangelo they think all of their thoughts are all theirs i want to take one home with me i put on my suit and step outside i breathe the air i know is mine see everything i own i've got a house a car and diamond rings and i can buy these needed things because i did what i was told "you could be holding on a rocket instead you've fallen by the way side of life" and she said "but you don't understand it this is how i choose to live my life and that's fine" "i want to take you home and dry your crying eyes" and she said "well i just sell my body but you have gone and sold your mind"
