all in all we are and can i see my ways back home in time call and fall away to see lights crack through holes in place and time settle down and hide away scrape it by push away the broken glass from my face open up the metal frames twisted closed tear apart the misplaced hands small and slip away and close tight lips and eyes to hide in time and can we change all we see (in our eyes) and can we fix all of our old mistakes (in our minds) in time we hope to change (in time) in time we hope we can understand (in time)
