There's a sound coming out of the radio
Nothing like it's been heard here before
And they're all spinning round, going crazy-o
As they rush to the music store
And they buy it and listen and groove a bit
Till the next song just like it appears
Then it's gone, gone, gone then it's gone
And they won't remember squat about it
Nothing left that's hot about it, gone, gone.

There's a new iteration of beauty queen
Everybody's been talking about
She's the body and face of the movie scene
With the glamour that clamors too loud
And America can't get enough of her
Till the novelty's no longer new
Then it's gone, gone, gone, then it's gone
And if yesterday she owned the market
Now it's time for her to park it,
Gone, gone, gone! it's gone!

Thanks for telling me
What you're selling me's
So compelling, I'm hip to the scene
Your invention got my attention but there's no retention
No blip on the screen!

There's a headline parade screaming out at us
Every story's the biggest one yet
And the sturm and the drang that they shout at us
Are the stories we won't soon forget
Until what do you know, we've forgotten them
Can't remember just who, what, or why
It's all gone, gone, gone, here and gone
Because everything and nothing's famous
Only here to infotain us, gone, gone, gone.

Fill my brain with fluff
Make it rain with stuff
Stuff inane enough it won't last a wink
Keep it coming, the constant drumming, electrons

humming
I don't have to think!

There's a fever that's reaching its pinnacle
And I don't even know what about
Well forgive me if I'm being cynical
But I'm just trying to figure it out
Will the network of neurons be notified
Will the synapses send me a sign
Before it's gone, gone, already gone?
And in case we missed the big one, darn it
Hope I catch the reincarnate! gone.
If you find reflecting too perplexing
Wait a minute for the next thing! gone!
