I've got a secret you see,
Automatic could never touch her,
She beats so clear, I can't give myself to the beat
Just to be hear the sound.
She taught me to seek truth in the path her Gentle footsteps trace.
And I must confess I love the shape that my mind takes whenever she is on it. I know...
I know, wherever she may be.

Everyone needs their proof
Some kind of rule to latch onto
We all want to peek outside the box
But were all caught up inside staring at each other, just trapped inside
We need to see, all of us just little thoughts, racing out of control,
Serving the speed of light and we like the truth we want nothing but truth.
Go ahead, try and find yourself a part of every perfect thing? In the footsteps of harmony Everyone wants the answer they can't see, I'm sure unlocks every question.
I want to give it away.

Sometimes I get so blue to see My friends, with life so close at hand.
I get so scared, with eyes wide shut,
All fail to find hope near to them.
If what's concealed tends to reveal itself in time,
Just accept that it makes no sense to abide a secret smile.
I've got to give it away when she sends me falling So sing it again, I know, I know love the shape it takes when she is on it?
