You point that little finger out
You got four pointing back at you
It goes everywhere you go
Does everything you do

He got roughed up on the inside
He screaming that this ain't fair
And in a block moment alone on the outside
Thought that no one cared, alright

You want me
You need me
You have me
I'm yours

So he puts in a call to his only friend
He dials 1-800-fear
Then he hid his face inside his hands
You know he wasn't very clear

Said I'm roughed you on the inside
You know that this ain't fair
And in a New York minute, he felt like a million
'Cause he knew somebody cared he said

I have but a nation in me for everyone to see
I am but a tribute to mediocrisy
I'm your mother, father, brother, son, I'm a little bit of everyone
Hide in the shadow cast by the sun in constant misery

I am fear

You want me
You need me
You have me
I'm yours

Yes I know you've always loved me
Call me now, between the tears
I know you put no one above me
Call me now, between the tears

I am fear

Call me now uncover me
Watch me work, it's what I do
Call me now uncover me
Watch me work and watch what I undo

So he broke up all his fingers
While pulling out his hair
And he broke into a million pieces
No, nobody cared

He was beat-up on the inside
Fighting to survive
Spent a long time dyin' no not for tryin'
When you want to feel alive

Seem like total chaos everywhere you turn
Seem, I think you like it every turn you burn
When you're wiped out on the inside and you can't catch your breath
And in a black out moment alone on the outside
Beat him right to death, alright

You want me
You need me
You have me
I'm yours

Yes I know you've always loved me
Call me now, between the tears
I know you put no one above me
Call me now, between the tears

Yes I know you've always loved me
Call me now, between the tears
I know you put no one above me
Call me now

I am fear
