Wake a little woozy, feeling shitty
Overdone, overtired
Walking like you lose, just shitty
Wherever you go

Are you happy with the congregation?
Do you find that you always need more?
Are you wishing on a constellation?
Do you find that your throat's always sore?

You know what they needed
You know what they like
You got them believing
That all of it's right

One moment, one man
One time does the best he can
One push and one desire
One time to walk through fire

Got an itty, bitty, shitty, over
Now start the fire
Just enough pity left to start
What you don't want to know

Are you happy with your contribution?
Do you find that you always want more?
Are you praying for the revolution?
Looking forward to your day in court

You know what they needed
You know what they like
You got them believing
That all of it's right

One moment, one man
One time does the best he can
One push and one desire
One time to walk through fire

One moment, one man
One time does the best he can

One push and one desire
One time to walk through fire

You know what they needed
You know what they like
You got them believing all

One moment, one man
One time does the best he can
One push and one desire
One time to walk through fire

One moment, one man
One time does the best he can
One push and one desire
One time to walk through fire
