Grey Monologue
words: Detweiler
music: Kelly
recording: Patience

This is as close as you and I ever get to the ocean my third story bedroom window overlooking this rain-drenched night you breathe, and I recall the power of trains let's let the night sleep in let's pray that it engulfs us you know I can't even begin to see your eyes but if I'm ever really drunk it will be from drinking every drop of your soul and running till I sweat your spirit
