I've been drowning in waters far too deep
And I've been hoping and praying
That someday you will

See this crestfallen heart was never yours to hold
I write these same sad words
I led you up to watch me fall
Down with your lies and your deceits
I am so infinite
I am so lost in you

I was your only, you were the everything I had Such lies and stories, and now we are as good as we are dead
Knee deep in sorrow, I live this life with bitter ends
Bring forth tomorrow, I'll face these fears without you
With my broken homes and weakened strength

I've been drowning in waters far too deep
And I've been hoping and praying
That someday you will see me as I am
Not what you want from me
You led me up just to watch me fall
And I can't believe I was so lost in you

Oh how I end my days without you here with me
I'll search for better homes, I'll search for better bones
I will not be safe anymore, I will not be thrown back to the floor
Where you picked me up and led me into your life again
Loving you was like a journey without an end

Take it back, don't let this go
Take it back, take it back, don't let this go
Take it back don't let this go

I've been drowning in waters far too deep
And I've been hoping and praying
That someday you will see me as I am
Not what you want from me
You led me up just to watch me fall

And I can't believe I was so lost in you

Take it back, don't let this go
Take it back, don't let this go
Take it back, don't let this go!

Go comprehend these thoughts
Without you here, without you near
But this time my heart won't be bought
Dear weary souls with weary hearts
We are the lost in every sound
Oh vagabond, please take me now
I loved you from the start
I love your voice and your ugly smile

I've been drowning in waters far too deep
And I've been hoping and praying
That someday you will see

Step by step and inch by inch
My heart gets ready now
And then you'll see
You all will see
That I'm finally finding out,
Finally over this
