INTRO)

I'm a road master baby, I spend my life on the road I'm a travelin' musician carryin' a pretty big load I spend my days drivin' down the highway a when the show is over, I do things my way look out honey, 'cause the road master's on the road

Â

well I met a little woman down in Nashville Tennessee she said she'd play her harp if I could do a number in C well when the show was over, I knew her pretty well I said I like to hang around and talk a spell but tomorrow I'm in Macon and the road master's got to go

well, one night at a roadhouse, I thought it was the end of the line

I had a pretty waitress but a truck driver hollered, "she's mine"

I told him meet me out in front if he wanted to fight and then I snuck around in back like a thief in the night I got the four wheels turnin' got the road master on the road

well I'm a fool for the highway, I never thought of settlin' down

I like to play my music when there's lots of pretty women around

I never noticed any difference 'tween a woman and a lady

I'll take anything from eighteen to eighty when the full moon's risin' and the road master's on the road

I never noticed any difference 'tween a woman and a

when the full moon's risin' and the road master's on

when the full moon's risin' and the road master's on
