Morning comes and I've been looking all around for something

But no one gives me something like you do

You gave me all I've ever wanted

Now I'm left here feeling daunted

One of these days I'll never turn back on falling for someone like you, like you

One of these days I'll never turn back on falling for someone like you, like you

Shallow thoughts of growing old will I ever find the right one

To take these broken tears and cry no more

Should I believe you're coming back

To tell me that you're sorry

One of these days I'll never turn back on falling for someone like you, like you

One of these days I'll never turn back on falling for someone like you, like you

I've been waiting and I know that you're out there

Looking for love just like me, just like me

One of these days I'll never turn back on falling for someone like you, like you (I know that you're out there, I know that you're there)

One of these days I'll never turn back on falling for someone like you, like you (I know that you're out there, I know that you're there)

One of these days I'll never turn back on falling for someone like you, like you

I've been waiting and I know that you're out there

Looking for love just like me, just like me
