There's a fine fine line
Between happiness and lonely
I've spent my life mostly
On the lonely side
My soul's always been a searcher
My heart's always been a hurter
I've ridden long roads further
Than most folks ride

Turns out there's two sides to me
To being blind to see
The difference

Between falling in love
And falling apart
Between making a day
And breaking a heart
Time does its changing
Life does its changing
And I'm changing too
And the difference
The difference is you

My memories were empty
Victories hollow
I'm drowning in shallow water
My brokenness is over
Promises are sober
The rough around my edges softer

Turns out there's two sides to me
To being blind to see
The difference

Between falling in love
And falling apart
Between making a day
And breaking a heart
Time does its changing
Life does its changing
And I'm changing too
And the difference

The difference is you

A sky is just a sky
Till a star starts to shine
And a name is just a name
Until you call me by mine
And there's a difference
A difference

And falling apart
Between making a day
And breaking a heart
And I'm changing too
And the difference
The difference is you
