you got a perfect girl and it's a perfect world you build a fortress around you can see no reason not to continue the things that you always dreamed about you know that in time they'll be running out stop turning around and round and round everything you wanted will be falling down like castles in the sand

everything you needed in the world, you're holding, holding in your hands and if this comfortable life is your only passage through time just make sure you can break through the walls that you are building around you the things you always dreamed about

everything you wanted will be coming down like castles
in the sand
everything you needed in the world you're holding,
holding in your hands
wanna be part of the world you gotta hand something over

so turn it around and round and round everything you wanted will be falling down like castles
in the sand
everything you needed in the world you're holding,

don't you want to hold it, hold it now everything that you need you're holding in your hands
