They've got you right where they've always wanted this to end.

So don't close the void, make you so full of air consistency.

I'll let you in, let you in on another escape plan,
'Cause you've been held captive once again.
Who's to say you can't get away?
I'll let you in, let you in on another escape plan,
'Cause you've been held captive once again.
I'll break you out if that's what it takes.

And I'll close my eyes so we can disappear,
Savor every little moment that we're not here.
This is our time to be free,
They'll never catch up to you and me.
It's all just another game to them,
A hiding place for favorite.
And when we run away together,
We'll have escaped forever.

I'll let you in, let you in on another escape plan,
'Cause you've been held captive once again.
Who's to say you can't get away?
I'll let you in, let you in on another escape plan,
'Cause you've been held captive once again.
I'll break you out if that's what it takes.

Through time and time you kept your wings,
And realized you can't give in.
You'll never get away, with these tired chains,
On your feet.
It's all just another game to them,
A hiding place for favorite.
And when we run away together,
We'll have escaped forever.

I'll let you in, let you in on another escape plan,
'Cause you've been held captive once again.
Who's to say you can't get away?
I'll let you in, let you in on another escape plan,
'Cause you've been held captive once again.

I'll break you out if that's what it takes.
