You keep your loneliness inside your heart
You never forget what it was that tore you apart
You can't forgive the past and you won't accept the now
There's only one thing left to do, that's to show you how

To let go of all your hurt
You've got to know that no everything's a curse
Time can heal your burns
But if you don't let it things will only get worse

So shine
Things are sure to get better in a matter of time
Don't cry
Not everything will work out, but that's just
That's just life, that's just life

You say too much bad has happened to you now
That you can't see the good when it happens to you somehow
You keep your emotions locked up in a security vault
A dark void exists inside your mind where once upon a time there was hope

To let go of all your hurt
You've got to know that no everything's a curse
Time can heal your burns
But if you don't let it things will only get worse

So shine
Things are sure to get better in a matter of time
Don't cry
Not everything will work out, but that's just
That's just life, that's just life
