I never been to New York City
But I hear it's great this time of year
Your bundled up and sure look pretty Sure wanna go with you somewhere

Lets get in the car and drive
Until the sun sets
We'll find a place to hide
In each others arms
Keep warm through the night
Til the morning comes again

What is love without fear
What is life without death
What is joy without pain
And who are we if not together

For our world is full of hurt and pain
And darkness too
So hold the ones you love today
And speak the truth
For tomorrow may not come
So today hold the ones you love

I sure wanna go to New York City
I hear the snow is falling there
And if we never go it would be a pity
I wanna take you far from here

Let get in the car and drive
An take the long way there
Til we both arrive, stand hand in hand on buildings in the sky
you and I there together

What is love without fear
What is life without death
What is joy without pain, sunshine without rain
And who are we if not together

For our world is full of hurt and pain
And darkness too

So hold the ones you love today
And speak the truth
For tomorrow may not come
So today hold the ones you love

For our world is full of hurt and pain
And darkness too
So hold the ones you love today
And speak the truth
For tomorrow may not come
So today hold the ones you love
For tomorrow may not come
So hold onto those that you love
For tomorrow may not come
So today hold the ones you love
