Willing to sacrifice a love once given but not shared living in remorse

On better days she threw stones
Emotions hardly breathe
These love birds don't share the sky

Two eyes were not enough
But just enough to say you're not alone
It's where true beauty lies
There was no sympathy for you just a heart ache

I won't forget this day because you ended life You're broke and confused and you're not keeping track of the dead
And you take me away

Breakdown tonight there'll be no comfort for you

On better days she threw stones
Emotions hardly breathe
These love birds don't share the sky

Make a wish that brings me down
Down to the ground, that brings me life
My heart without my gun, this is frustration
Your dead and I know you'll break through

On better days she threw stones
Until emotions hardly break
With broken wings
These love birds no longer share the sky
