It's getting late
I'm lying on my bed wondering how my life has come to this cool winter breeze
cool enough to freeze seals my troubled mind with cold and tender kiss in my shattered heart broken and torn apart
i feel nothing, I'm a cold and empty shell now im trapped alone
made my mind my home
my mind is my cell

I'm stuck behind bars
someone please let me out of my mind
i want to break free

Set me free
take me home, please take me
set me free
i want to know how it feels like to be free
all is lost but still i want to try
how it feels to be alive

time is going fast
everything has passed
every single day's a new yesterday when i was a kid
i wish i never did
the things i should never have done

set me free

everything is lost, all and everything but one the things that you're about to do and the things that you have done

i welcome you with open arms to join the other side death is just the easy way, death will keep you alive
