I had it all planned out until you doused me in kerosene.
I will admit that I cut the wires, my good intentions got the best of me.
Better line em' up one by one to be sure that the culprit is caught.
There's a pretty penny riding on this one, so don't cut any corners.
I'd like to say that you'll get more than you bargained for.
My dogs will get their fill tonight. (Lets go!)
You may have heard of my victims, I put pennies on their eyes.
You should consider this an honor of sorts.
I don't share my secrets with anyone.
This might seem a bit unfair, but you came searching for the good life.
It's not an easy task, you wanted it on a silver platter.
Have I gone too far outside of your comfort zone?
I might leave you in three inches of muddy water.
Damn I'm feeling good.
It could just be this stale air.
You've caught me at the top of my game.
One we're on the bridge of redemption, I'll make sure you have no legs to jump with.
Once we're on the bridge of redemption, I'll make sure you have no hands to push me away.
Find yourself a prayer to deliver you some hope.
Are you a God fearing man?
You should fear me like I am God. Are you a God fearing man?
You should fear me because I am God.
Are you running out of steam?
Act like you're not.
Son don't cry your eyes out.
My son you are slipping from my arms, embrace the shining light.
(Don't fucking take my life!)
It's clear we're not seeing eye to eye.
I'm never going to back down from your knife.
I came here searching for your gold, now I'm pressing on wounds across my neck.

I'm never going to back down from your knife.
I feel you ripping through my chest.
I'm never going to back down from your knife, I feel the breath retreating from my lungs.
