Leave the window open, I need to feel the world outside
This bout with apathy is breaking me
I hope the rain tonight will erase it all from my mind
My new fantasy
A place for me

The rain tonight could wash away my suffering and lay
my fears to rest
This rain tonight could wash away my everything and let me start again

I can't seem to focus and the days keep slipping by The unknown consequence of my vigilance
A little medication and I might just let it die

That's what they tell me, but I can't believe

The rain tonight could wash away my suffering and lay
my fears to rest
This rain tonight could wash away my everything and
let me start again

The rain tonight could wash away my suffering and lay
my fears to rest
This rain tonight could wash away my everything and
let me start again

The rain tonight could wash away my everything and then... let me start again
