Passion must be placed in the heart that has None moments spending time making sure
Things are fine sometimes they're not and if You haven't got it you never will it's hard to Understand I'm learning still life's so complex
We forget to feel but whose to say and what's to Feel a truthful eye knows what is real and we May stop...

We may stop to dream
Believe in things we've never seen

Scattering dreams
Spinning in circles that never stop never end they Just roll along in a stream of consciousness

Can't forget those who have watched me walk
Through unknown fear living inside us all there
Is a dream to leave now and find a home with
No boundaries and no mistakes remaining
Consistent surrounded by change we move
Forward one by one to keep pace.
