"Falling Leaves"

Autumn sky, a sunny day under a whispering tree I was bleeding and dreamin' about a ravengirl and me waiting for something above my head in this time of the year it could be brown, golden or red

Come on, reach out your hands if you believe
Reach out your hands if you believe
Reach out your hands if you believe

A friend's father told him once if you catch a leaf say a wish, nail it in your heart and see what you receive it won't come straight, prey and shout it will come on the day when you have all forgot about

If you believe in things, what your eyes can't see wait for the dawn and let your spirit free feel her lips, feel her black wings, hear the song the nightbird sings
and all we fools will be kings

Come on, reach out your hands if you believe
Reach out your hands if you believe
Reach out your hands if you believe
Reach out your hands, catch a falling leaf Catch your falling leaf
